WILL WELCOME RIVAL

ASTRA FILM CORPORATION SAYS PROPOSED NEW COMPANY WILL BE GREAT THING

The Astra Film Corporation reports quiet routine just at present but big things in prospect at that studio. The serial that is being directed by Jimmy Horn, "The Third Eye," is on its last lap and will soon be completed. Week after next a new serial for Ruth Roland called "The Broadway Bat" will be started. The story is by Johnson McCulley and the scenario has been prepared by Frances Geuhan.

Lou Cody and Manager Gaznier returned Saturday from a flying trip to New York. No announcement can yet be made about just when Lou Cody and Mae Marsh will begin work at the studio, but it will be soon. Their stories are being gotten ready for them and will soon be in shape for production to begin.

Relative to the new million dollar plant in prospect, they say it will be a great thing for Glendale and put this city on the road to becoming one of the great producing centers. Hollywood, they declare, is already beginning to sit up and take notice and is regarding Glendale as her greatest rival.

GLENDALE'S CHARMS SUPERIOR TO FLORIDA'S

Frederick Baker and wife are among those who came to Glendale to rent and remained to buy. He is a retired business man of Springfield, Mass., and he and his wife spent last winter in St. Petersburg, Florida. They were seeking a permanent home far from the bleak winds and heavy snows of New England. Florida suited them very well for a winter residence, but not for all the year, so California was tried this winter. Mr. Baker was attracted to Glendale and tried to rent a place for the winter, but could find none, so he bought at 215 Milford, where he and his wife are now cozily settled. He intends to improve the place considerably.

NO LET UP IN BUILDING

That there will be no let up in building activities in Glendale if materials hold out, is evidenced by the fact that the sales of residence lots show a steady increase and in nearly every case the purchaser says he expects to build soon. Some have been delayed in this respect by the inability of contractors to get good workmen. All of this class have more calls than they can satisfy, while the incompetent and indifferent carpenters shift about from place to place.

F. J. KNUTZNER ON BUYING TRIP

F. J. Kuntzner, proprietor of the Glendale Paint and Paper Co., is now in the East buying his year's stock of paints and wall paper. Buffalo and New York City are the principal markets for those lines. He expects to return home in about ten days.

BACK FROM IOWA VISIT

E. F. Kober, who with his two younger sons, has been spending the past six months in Trayer, Iowa, returned Tuesday. While the Hawkeye state is still dear to his heart on account of early associations, Glendale is decidedly his choice as a place of permanent residence. He will resume his old business, he says.

AMERICAN LEGION

GLENDALE POST ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1920 AND ADDS NEW MEMBERS

Glendale Post, No. 127 of the American Legion, held its regular meeting Thursday evening. Chairman Dru Nicoles called the boys to order and the business of the old year was closed up. The treasurer's report showed a goodly balance on hand and the business affairs in a flourishing condition. The election of officers resulted as follows: Dru W. Nicoles, chairman; Robert C. Plume, first vice chairman; Jesse Flower, second vice chairman; James F. McBryde, secretary; Joseph Wilson, treasurer; Herman Bullis, sergeant-at-arms; Richardson D. White, Dwight W. Stephenson, Wm. B. Kelly, Emil Kiefer and Dr. H. V. Brown, executive committee. Plans for 1920 were outlined and discussed. It was decided to furnish the Post room at once and to put on a vaudeville entertainment soon, under the direction of Joe Griffin.

Seven new members were taken into the Post.

BUYS FRUIT RANCH

HARRY S. HOOPER OF WASHINGTON, D. C., BUYS GLENDALE HOME

When Harry S. Hooper sold his painting and decorating business in Washington, D. C., to good advantage a few weeks ago, he decided to locate in California. So he packed his furniture and started it for Los Angeles, while he and his young wife and two small children came on ahead. They landed in Los Angeles and at once began the weary round of searching for a place to live. In place after place where even the scantiest accommodations could be found, they were turned down because of their small children. Finally at an Elks' meeting he attended Mr. Hooper was told to try Glendale. He had no better success here in renting, but finally bought John Andrews' two-acre orange ranch on Colorado, just east of Verdugo Road, and moved in with the family to await the coming of his furniture. There are seventy trees in full bearing on the place and thirty-eight more of younger growth. Mr. Hooper expects to ship oranges back to some of his friends in the nation's capital. He will build a nice home in the southeast corner of his ranch, facing on Verdugo Road.

Mr. Andrews, who has owned and run the ranch for the past ten years, at times doing a large shipping business, will go to Fresno to live. Four of his children are already living there, only the youngest son being with him, and his wife here. Their goods are packed and they start early in the morning in auto and truck for the new home, where they expect to try ranching.

MORRIS JACKSON MARRIED

John H. Jackson and wife of 316 Milford received Wednesday a letter from their son, Morris, who is in Chicago, containing a clipping from a Washington, D. C., paper, telling of his marriage in the latter city, on December 29, to Miss Jessie Martensen of New Lisbon, Wis. She had been a hospital nurse in Washington all during the war and Morris met her there. They will visit the Glendale relatives next April, after Morris gets his discharge from the Marines. He has a good position in Chicago, and he and his wife will make their home there.

TRUSTEES' MEETING

CITY ATTORNEY REPORTS FAVORABLY ON QUESTION OF INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT SITE

The Board assembled at 7:52 p. m., January 8, 1920. All members were present. Minutes of the regular meeting of January 2, 1920, were read and approved.

A communication was read from the Glendale Chamber of Commerce expressing appreciation of the successful entry at the Tournament of Roses of the Glendale float, which secured the first prize of its class, and thanking the employes of the city for their efforts in making the exhibit a success.

A communication was read from the Glendale American Legion Post No. 127, requesting that the service flag that flew so long at the corner of Broadway and Brand Boulevard be delivered to the custody of the post to be displayed in their room. The communication also requested that the light and water bills for the club room of the Legion be remitted.

On motion of Trustee Jackson, the request of the American Legion Post No. 127, embodied in the communication were ordered to be granted.

A petition was presented from C. A. Weaver and nineteen (19) other property owners and residents residing on Oak Street between Pacific Avenue and Kenilworth Avenue, requesting that street lights be placed on that portion of Oak Street, bearing numbers 501 to 600. In connection with this matter the City Manager stated that the plans now under way for the extension of the city lighting system into recently annexed territory, included the section referred to.

An application was presented from R. A. Baker for permission to establish a screening plant at the southwest corner of Lot 5, Tract No. 646, being on the bank of the wash at San Fernando Road. The application was accompanied by a statement from the Building Inspector giving details in regard to the proposition. On motion of Trustee Henry, referred to

THEIR SHARPLY DEFINED DIFFERENCES GIVE PARTY A CHANCE OF CHOOSING LEADERSHIP

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Democratic leaders today believe that Bryan's appeal at last night's Jackson Day banquet to effect a peace treaty compromise, will not have the effect of splitting the democratic party or weakening President Wilson's control.

Bryan made two speeches, finishing the last one at 2:30 this morning, and in them took a stand diametrically opposed to President Wilson's suggestion that the treaty be made a campaign issue. It was generally conceded that his action gives the party the chance of choosing between Bryan's and Wilson's leadership.

After carefully reading Wilson's communication to the meeting many democrats and republicans in the Senate agreed that Wilson's statement closed the door on any chance of compromising the peace treaty fight. They predicted, however, that Bryan's differences with Wilson will not affect the treaty situation in the Senate.

EARTHQUAKE TOLL INCREASES

CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATES FIGURE DEAD AT 4000; TWELVE TOWNS AND VILLAGES DESTROYED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—Conservative estimates today place the earthquake toll at 4000 dead. Twelve towns and villages were destroyed.

WILL NOT ASK DEATH PENALTY

SO STATES DEPUTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY KEYES IN OPENING ARGUMENT AT HARRY S. NEW TRIAL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes opening the arguments in the Harry New murder trial this morning, surprised the court with the announcement that the death penalty will not be asked. He declared:

"The issue here is whether this man shall be confined to an asylum or a penitentiary. This man should not go to the gallows but to San Quentin for the remainder of his natural life."

Keyes indicated there is a possibility that the crime might be defined as "voluntary manslaughter" or "killing done in a sudden quarrel in the heat of passion." He referred to United States Senator New, the alleged father of the defendant, as evidently a man some standing and some importance.

He attacked with especial vehemence the insanity plea saying that pleas of insanity are as old as law itself as a last resort in defence of persons accused of crime.

Keyes' address to the jury, which started at 9:30 o'clock was for the most part devoid of any bitterness or flights of oratory.

AIR MAIL ROUTES

IF CONGRESS PASSES BIG APPROPRIATION BILL FOUR WILL BE ESTABLISHED INCLUDING ONE TO 'FRISCO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Postmaster General Burleson today said that if Congress passes the $3,000,000 appropriation for airpiane mail service, four more aerial routes will be established. They willbe:

Chicago to San Francisco, giving California its first aerial mail route.

Pittsburg to Kansas City via Indianapolis, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

New York to Atlanta, via Washington.

Minneapolis to St. Louis via St. Paul.

A fifth route down the Mississippi by hydroplane from St. Louis to New Orleans is under consideration.

NEW MEXICAN EMBASSADOR

SALVADORE DIEGO FERNANDEZ, FORMER CHIEF CLERK OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, SUCCEEDS BONILLAS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 9.—Advices from Mexico City say that Salvadore Diego Fernandez, former chief clerk in the Mexican Department of Foreign Relations, will succeed Ignacio Bonillas as Mexican Ambassador to Washington.

Bonillas is now en route through Mexico seeking to become a candidate for the presidency.

PRESIDENT'S HEALTH APPROACHES NORMAL

WALKS UNASSISTED AROUND WHITE HOUSE GROUNDS FOR FIRST TIME AND READS ALL PAPERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—For the first time since he became ill, President Wilson today walked unassisted around the White House grounds. White House officials said the president is "full of fight" and that he read all the papers today carrying stories of his difference with Bryan on the peace treaty.

COMMUNITY SING

L. T. ROWLEY AND E. E. HARWOOD ELECTED PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT

After an interval of two weeks in which no meetings had been held, members of the Community Sing and their friends came together Thursday night at the Union High School for their regular sing and also for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Alexander Mitchell and Blake Franklin, who had served most faithfully and efficiently the past year as president and vice president, asked to be relieved of official responsibilities, and their resignations were accepted with regret and tokens of appreciation. L. T. Rowley was elected president, Ernest E. Harwood, vice president, and Mr. H. B. Howeth succeeded himself as secretary-treasurer. He reported $51 now on hand in the treasury.

The new songs tried were "The American Legion," by C. Sharpe Minor, and "The Lost Chord." Old songs reviewed were "Old Black Joe," "Suanne River," "Juanita," and the program opened as usual with "America," and closed with "Star Spangled Banner." It is expected that the plan of financing the organization, which was adopted when meetings were resumed in the fall, will be continued.

NEW REAL ESTATE FIRM

A new real estate firm will move into the office room now occupied by Doner and Hemenway, 204 East Broadway, on February 1. It will be Jackson & Hawkins and the partners are known to their friends as Bob Jackson and Joe Hawkins. The latter came here from Monrovia but a few months ago, but was for many years engaged in the real estate business at La Crescenta, and has been recently associated with Calvin Whiting.

Homer D. Lockwood began moving into the new home at 219 West Lomita Avenue Thursday, though the house is not yet quite finished and the concrete work in the yard is only part of it done. The house is of six rooms and is very nicely finished, inside and out.

AMERICANIZATION

SPECIAL THEME AT MEETING OF GENERAL RICHARD GRIDLEY CHAPTER D. A. R.

Unusually large was the attendance on the meeting of the General Richard Gridley Chapter of the American Revolution held Thursday afternoon at the home of the regent, Mrs. J. H. Braly on Brand Boulevard. The hostess had beautifully decorated her home for the occasion with red, white and blue flowers in the reception rooms and a profusion of marygolds in the dining room.

The chief address of the afternoon was made by Richardson D. White, Superintendent of City Schools, his theme being "Americanization," which is the slogan and the chief work to which the D. A. R. as a national organization is devoting its energies. He reviewed the work that is being done by the public schools for the foreign born, particularly in Los Angeles, and expressed the conviction that more work will be necessary along that line. He also said that three members of the teaching staff of the Intermediate School had volunteered to give their services without pay should any movement be started here for the instruction of aliens.

Mrs. Wells, the sister and house guest of the regent, also made an excellent talk on Americanization work undertaken by the D. A. R. with

PHILADELPHIANS VISITING GLENDALE FRIENDS

Edwin E. Johnston, wife and five children of Philadelphia, Pa., arrived in Glendale Wednesday and are guests of old friends, Joseph Prendeville and wife, of 470 West Harvard. Mr. Johnston has been in the meat and provision business in Philadelphia for a number of years, but expects to make his home in California from now on and he prefers to live in Glendale. He says he is so favorably impressed with the clean appearance and healthful location of the city that he will buy a home if he finds a place that suits him.

PARK AVENUE READING CIRCLE

The Mothers' Reading Circle, organized in the southern district of the city, met at the home of Mrs. Hartley Shaw Wednesday afternoon for the first meeting of the new year, after a holiday recess. The circle has just finished the "Study of Child Nature," by Elizabeth Harrison, and decided to read next "Self Reliance," by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, and also "Mother," by Kathleen Norris.

There was an interesting discussion on the subject of truthfulness in dealing with children, and also on a number of the problems of girlhood. There is a prospect that many new members will be enrolled in the near future.

PIONEERS IN BUILDING CAMPAIGN

The building campaign in Glendale which has now reached such large proportion, was inaugurated last February, and one of the first to build was V. W. Hollister, who came to the city in June, 1916, to take charge of the Valley Supply Co. He bought a sightly lot at 416 N. Louise and had built a very attractive seven-room bungalow, which the family still occupies. At almost the same time Homer D. Lockwood had built at 532 North Louise a fine appearing house of six rooms, which he has since sold.

COAST OIL PRODUCTS

OUTPUT CRIPPLED FOR LACK OF MACHINERY AND OTHER NEEDED EQUIPMENT

Messrs. Allison & Alexander who make a business of shooting oil wells report that the high prize of oil is vastly increasing the output in this state. Wells which had been capped down in Los Angeles County because it was not profitable to pump them have been uncapped and are yielding a steady product. Many new wells have been sunk in Ventura, Fresno and other fields, the only handicap being the shortage of equipment in the way of well machinery. When asked whether shortage of labor entered into the problem they said no, but it would if it were not for the lack of the materials which hold back production. It is likely to keep up as long as the consumption of the coast states is below production, which is the situation now.

EVERYTHING WAS ALL RIGHT

One of the policemen who took part in the bandit fight on Montgall Avenue the other day called his home immediately after hostilities ceased, to assure his wife that he was not injured. His wife was in the apartment upstairs, but his mother-in-law was there and answered the telephone. She took the message and then went upstairs to reassure her daughter. "Now, don't get excited," she said, "for there's nothing serious. Now, everything will be all right, but you know the police have had a big fight with some train robbers out by the Belt line, and your husband—"

The wife slowly, softly, slipped from her chair in a dead faint. Ten minutes later she was revived. Then she said: "Well, go on, tell me the rest."

"—And he called up to say he was all right, and will tell you about it at supper time."—Kansas City Star.

HARVEST FROM UNDER OCEAN

A good deal has been written about the use of the seaweed, kelp, for the production of potash, and a good deal of extravagant dreaming has been indulged in. However, the kelp industry has put itself on a solid and prosperous footing, and gold in the shape of the indispensable potash is being harvested from the waters of the Pacific. The cutters or harvesters are ocean-going boats and stay out at sea all the time, while the barges carry the macerated kelp back to the wharf, where it is pumped from the holds into fermenting tanks. Foreign matter such as bolts, nuts, etc., brought in with the kelp are removed by electromagnets before the pumps are reached.

Harvesting consists in cutting the plant about six feet below the surface of the water. It has actually been found that this treatment improves the growth and stand of the beds to such an extent that they may be cut over about every ninety days. The area cut at present extends from Point Conception south to the Mexican line.

The potash is all used for chemical purposes, owing to its unique purity, and there is not enough of it to supply this demand. The total quantity of the pure product is not great enough to be considered seriously for fertilizer purposes. There are, however, a number of residues produced containing potash which amount to quite a tonnage.

ANIMAL TOOLS

The number of tools which get their names from animals is not only amusing but surprising when you stop to count them up.

Of course you are familiar with the cock that shuts off the water and the ram that lifts it. Then there is the saw buck and the saw horse and the bear which helps in a punch. But do you realize that digging is done with a clam, hoisting with a crab, and that a cat is part of the outfit of a shop crane? And that every automobile has a kit of tools, and a jack?

A printing press has a fly and turtles fit the cylinders of a press. Fly wheels are common and any automobile has a butterfly whether it has worm-driven gears or not. The first locomotives had a grasshopper valve motion.

The rails of any trolley line are connected by fishplates, and in repairing the tracks a crow is used.

A donkey engine often drives machinery by the use of a mule pulley, and in drilling an old man is used, while in lathe work a doctor is used to prevent faulty work. And of course you all know how great was the use of caterpillar tractors and shells in the late conflict.—American Boy.

FOOLS TOO FORMAL

"It's a cold, formal world we live in," remarked the drummer, as he inspected the souvenir postals on the rack, "and something should be done about it.

"I must have somebody to talk to, somebody to listen to me especially. And sometimes that one is hard to find. I can not, according to the rules of etiquette as now interpreted, walk up to the first man I meet and engage him in an engrossing conversation. I am expected to pass him up until some friend of his or mine performs the ceremony of 'Mr. Jones, meet Mr. Jinks.'

"I won't stand on it or for it. If there is no one around to introduce me I'll do the job myself. When you know how, it becomes a very easy matter. And, you will find, the other person is usually as glad to meet you as you are to meet him. So why be strangers?

"After all, this country is a very small place. Just a little over a hundred million of us. If we were a congenial race everybody should know everybody else by his first name. Is there anything sadder than the heart of a New Yorker or a Chicagoan walking down the streets of Los Angeles and knowing nobody?

"And a man who knows all the cobblestones on Market Street in 'Frisco can die of loneliness on Broadway, for all his fellow man cares. The man who comes from the country, the tall grass, the big woods, is not so formal as his city brother. I was on a street car the other day and one of the other passengers was a soil tiller. When he got to his corner he turned around and said: 'Wal, good-by, everybody.'

"Did it take? My friends, everybody in that car put on a broad smile. The sunny intimacy of the old man warmed the cockles in every heart. A woman sitting next to me, who had looked as cold and distant as the top of Pike's peak from Denver, turned to me and said: 'Isn't he a dear old soul?'

"A perfectly strange man across the aisle came over and asked me for the time by my watch. I am positive that if that neighborly rube hadn't broken the ice that strange man would never have felt free enough to make his request. If he had asked for the loan of a five I would have passed it to him on the spot. I felt so in love with the world.

"When I left the car at my hotel corner I was myself impelled to bid those other people a fond adieu. They would have been put in a more cheerful frame of mind, and if perchance I ever met one of them again in some distant land they would have accepted me as an old friend. And that's one thing my system requires. I must have some one to talk to, some one to listen to me."

"If you were married your problem would be solved," said the girl at the cigar stand.

"It would not," replied the drummer sadly. "I'm on the road all the time and don't make enough to carry a wife with me."

IN LIFE'S SILENCES

Character comes by doing what ought to be done and resisting what ought not to be done, when no outsider is looking. It is quite true and happily true, that life is not lacking in the inspirations that come from the sense of being observed, or in the restraints imposed by the realized concern of watchful well-wishers. It is a blessed aid over hard places that in the nick of need some one is looking on to say an encouraging word. It is a blessed cheer through dark places that a warning voice reminds of lurking danger. But for such timely voices many of us would have yielded to temptation, to our hurt and loss. Nevertheless, character gets fixed in the silences of life, when no man is near, when no voices either to warn or to cheer are heard save only the voice within.

AWFUL POSSIBILITY

A smart little girl of three is the delight of a family for her prettiness as well as for the bright and odd things she says. The other day as a company of soldiers passed down the street in front of her home her little black-and-tan barked furiously through the windowpane at them.

The wee girl rose in alarm and said: "Shut the door, mama! Fido will bite the army!"

"Bud" Aney and Fred Volkhart, who, as conductor and motorman, are the oldest P. E. employers in point of service in Glendale, now have complete charge of the junction of the two lines at Brand and Broadway, looking after the dispatching of cars back and forth on the trains for Los Angeles.

A GREAT INVESTMENT

No lover of his country can better invest his money for his country's future than to put it into the work of humane education. Lawlessness, violence, strife, strikes, lockouts, boycotts, class animosities—these symptoms of a diseased social order were never so common this side the sea as today. The war has been in part responsible for this. War never leaves behind it any higher ideal of civic righteousness than that which preceded it; rather does it pull down all the ideals with which men entered into it.

Leave out of our public schools a large part of what now consumes the time of teacher and pupil and quicken in the hearts of the scholars the idea of justice, fair play, humanity, and human kinship, and not only would the future of the country be safeguarded but our children would be educated in things that are really fundamental and vital in character and life. This is humane education.—Our Dumb Animals.

Saving Money Is Like Getting Married

—It is easier after you have made the start than you thought it would be.

Many men hesitate to marry because they fear their ability to live up to the expectations of some good woman, and in many cases their fears are well-grounded. So, too, many men and women earning fair incomes delay opening a bank account fearing they may not be able to keep it up when the truth is that the start is the strongest possible incentive to continue the account and they are surprised to learn what a satisfaction there is in having an account.

Today is a good time to open an account at this bank.

KEEP ON THE MAIN ROAD

Everybody has some object in life, some job that is supreme. It may be bookkeeping, it may be school teaching, it may be writing books, or painting pictures, or politics. When you get that object, stick to it. Don't let it be spoiled by side issues. If you get at all prominent you will be asked to serve on committees and to make speeches and to hold offices and nobody knows what. Some of this is all right—when you know it is your duty as a citizen to do the work—but keep away from side issues. Don't get all overgrown with underbrush. Side issues become so important in many men's lives that their real work is ruined.—American Boy.

If you want to avoid the language of a saying that belongs to the stone age, and yet have a good substitute, why not say, "flying kites with one string," instead of "killing two birds with one stone?"

THE GOLDEN RULE IN PRACTICE

The quality which commonly constitutes the greatest barrier to the observance of the Golden Rule is selfishness. Ethical growth in ourselves is an important factor in world betterment, first, because the population of the world consists of units; second, because any unit may wield a vast influence for good or evil. The vain-glorious selfishness of a would-be world conquerer can bring, not only a harvest of suffering and wrecked lives but also moral degeneration among nations; while the selflessness and compassion of a Florence Nightingale can erect a memorial of imperishable fame; can breed higher aspirations in the souls of mankind; can establish a standard for world observance and imitation.

Selfishness is the usual accompaniment of cruelty; but the practice of self-sacrifice for others is the highest fulfillment of the Golden Rule.

Even with all that has been accomplished, there is still before us a long hard fight. "Heaven is not reached at a single bound."

Every one likes recreation, but, alas, that the craving for mere amusement should be gratified at the cost of the infliction of so much suffering as, for instance, is inflicted in the production of trained animal shows. They are the product of cruelty of a peculiarly ferocious and disgusting character. No attention whatever should be paid to the glib assertions of the show people that "all their training is done by kindness." No animal wants to do things utterly foreign to its habits, and which weary and annoy it, and as time is money, the process of training is put through as speedily as possible, with the aid of force. Many facts have been obtained from animal trainers no longer in the business, and therefore with no motive for concealment, and the revelations are of a shocking character. Fear is a necessary element in training animals. One animal trainer said, "My experience convinces me that the cleverer the performance, the greater the cruelty used to obtain it."

So great is the competition in this business that the animals have to be taught to do cleverer things every year. Beating is such a common feature of training that it is regarded as a matter of course. Elephants are compelled by hooks in the ear; spiked clubs are used; steel forks; spiked saddles; bars of iron; pins; electricity; choking nooses; hot irons; starvation; and any other device that the trainer can imagine to subdue the spirit of a wild animal, and the results are generally bruised and bleeding bodies. According to one trainer who had been with the Bostock company, even dogs are not trained without cruelty. Mongrels are mostly used because they are cheaper, and because they will try to be obedient after they are beaten; but a well bred dog will allow himself to be almost beaten to death rather than submit.

We are beginning to believe that, as Christians, we should apply the principle of the Golden Rule in our treatment of our little brothers of the animal world. If we were in these poor animals' places, would we like such treatment as I have described? We humanitarians should arouse public sentiment against trained animal shows and circuses; also against moving pictures which show brutality of any sort whatever. And though perhaps it is the most difficult task of all, we should help to prevent the continuance of these amusements by not allowing children to be present at them. If we would really help in these ways, in due time amusement procured by cruelty might become unfashionable, or even illegal.—Mrs. Mary F. Lovell in Our Dumb Animals.

CONCRETE PAVING BY SALT LAKE CO

The Salt Lake Railroad Company has workmen engaged in putting down its portion of the East Broadway concrete paving. The track was torn up at that point just south of the crossing of the P. E., ten feet of crushed rock pounded in and the ties laid over that. Several inches of cement will bring it up to the level and then the East Broadway paving job will be completed except the final surfacing.

AFTER "ZEMPSHUN" MONEY

Trailed by his wife and eleven children, ranging from stout cornfield hands to bow-legged toddlers, an old darkey made his way from office to office in the Federal building at Asheville, N. C., seeking his "zempshun."

Finally reaching the city exemption board, he said: "Boss, I done come for my zempshun money." The clerk did not understand him. "You mean your pension money, don't you?" queried the clerk. The old man shook his head. "No, sir, boss; I mean de $2000 de gubment 'lows married folks."

Further inquiry disclosed that the old man had heard some one say the government allowed the head of a family $2000 exemption under the income tax law, and he understood this to mean that the government would pay him $2000.

He accepted the news that there was nothing coming to him philosophically.

"Jest like atter tuther wah," he remarked. "Dey say den us darkies gwine fer to git a mule apiece and we ain't nebber got none."

GLENDALE TO HAVE INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT

The decision reached by the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale at last evening's official meeting brings to the citizens of Glendale the very welcome news that our city is assured of an industrial district. For many months the industrial committee of the Greater Glendale Development Association of which committee Roy L. Kent is chairman has been securing options on land in the western part of Glendale north of Colorado street, which location they have thought was well adapted for industrial activities. Several weeks ago Mr. Kent and others appeared before the board asking that certain territory bordering on the San Fernando Road, north of Colorado street be set apart by the city for industrial projects. The Board after very careful consideration decided at last night's meeting of the trustees as published elsewhere in this issue of the Evening News to grant the request of the committee.

For many years the lack of a well-defined industrial district in Glendale has been a drawback to the locating of industries in our midst. It made no difference how worthy the industrial enterprise seeking a location here, it was impossible to find a place for such an enterprise without its meeting with objections by citizens in the territory proposed for its location, and as there was no legally prescribed territory for industries the objections were sustained by the Board of Trustees and the institution seeking admission sought other cities for its home.

Now since this very important question is settled let all citizens of Glendale work together and use their influence to bring to Glendale as many worthy industrial concerns as possible.

The location selected is an ideal one. It is convenient to the Southern Pacific railway and it is bordering on the San Fernando Boulevard which is the through boulevard between Los Angeles and San Francisco. A factory with its name prominently displayed on its buildings will become known by the thousands upon thousands of people who read the name from the passing autos and trains.

BUILDING IS GENERAL IN GLENDALE

The present building revival in Glendale is not confined to any section or new subdivision. It is true that probably more houses of architectural beauty and solidity of construction have arisen in that part of the city bounded by Broadway, Brand, the Wash and Howard street, yet it cannot be said that the majority of the new buildings are there. North Orange, Doran and Central avenue show many beautiful and costly creations of the architect's and builder's art. West Broadway, Patterson avenue, Howard and Eighth and Chestnut east of Adams, have their compact groups of new buildings, but practically all over the city the new homes are seen rising. On Howard north of Doran, five new houses can be counted in the space of less than half a block. On Patterson avenue west of Pacific avenue, there are seven in less than a block. On West Broadway there are nine in two blocks. In the extreme southeast a house of nine rooms is nearing completion that represents with the grounds an investment of more than $10,000. In the heart of the city are beautiful homes that cost from $15,000 to $20,000. Well may the discerning capitalist say, as quoted recently in The Evening News, "Keep your eye on Glendale. You'll see wonders there in the next three to five years."

LA CANADA THURSDAY CLUB

Mrs. N. Holden was hostess to the La Canada Thursday Club at its regular meeting January 8th. The subject of the afternoon's program was Italy.

Mrs. Wm. Metzger read a paper on "Modern Italian Musicians," and Mrs. P. H. Johnson talked of "Impressions of Venice" obtained while on a visit to that beautiful and historical city.

Records of Italian composition were played upon the Victrola and Mrs. Holden read a short paper on "How to Listen to Music."

Delightful refreshments were served during the social hour.

VISITING AT LA CRESCENTA

W. E. Bishop, wife and daughter, of Chehalis, Wash., are visiting R. C. Adkinson at LaCrescenta. Mr. Bishop is a prosecuting attorney.

PILES DRIVEN WEST OF CENTRAL AVENUE

The double row of two-inch steel piling along the south side of the Wash between Central and Pacific Avenues, has been driven, two pile drivers having been used to rush the work, and the north side will next receive attention. The flood control work is hindered somewhat by the scarcity of brush to fill in between the rows of piling and citizens who have trees cut down or trimmed should save all the brush for this purpose.

WEATHER FORECAST: Fair tonight and Saturday. Heavy frost Saturday morning.

Mr. Otto, who purchased the property of Milton Armstrong on South Maryland Avenue is putting it in order to sell.

Mrs. W. S. Althouse of 647 North Isabel Street is looking for the return of her husband the last of the month.

Mrs. J. H. Long of 410 West Garfield Avenue is seriously ill and her friends are concerned about her condition.

Miss Margaret Sharpe of 109 W. Lomita Avenue was in Hollywood last evening to attend the marriage of a girl friend.

Dr. W. J. Jeter and family are moving tomorrow from 114 North Belmont to a home they recently bought on Hartwick Street, Eagle Rock.

O. E. Olshausen and wife of 200 North Adams attended the marriage Wednesday night in Los Angeles of a girlhood friend of Mrs. Olshausen, Miss Florence Armstrong, to John Law.

Farris C. Brown of 217 West Lomita Avenue was in Long Beach Wednesday evening to attend the wedding of a former army comrade of the 158th Ambulance Corps, A. B. Vroooman of Grass Range, Wash.

Reuben Gould, the Indian guide from Chester, Lassen County, who has been visiting the family of A. L. Baird, 338 North Jackson, for the past three weeks, started on his return home Thursday.

Miss Frances Payne and her mother, former residents and property owners here, returned to Bakersfield Sunday after spending the holidays with friends in this city. Miss Payne is teaching in the middle state city and likes her school very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuder of 236 Dayton Court have bought property in Highland Park to which they are moving today. They have a fine family of seven children. Some are in the grade schools and one is attending the university.

Mrs. Lena Melrose and her little son, Clifford, who have been spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ayars of Palmer Avenue, left Saturday to return to their home in Bakersfield. Mrs. Melrose is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Shaw of Park Avenue were the very fortunate recipients of a beautiful Christmas gift in the shape of a Studebaker Light Six from Mr. Shaw's parents. They are looking for delivery about the first of the month, but will not complain if it comes sooner.

J. T. Black, wife, son and daughter, are newcomers to Glendale, having bought the house at 515 Burchett. They came to Los Angeles from Shasta county, a few months ago, but Glendale attracted them and they decided to buy a home here. They are well pleased with their purchase.

Last evening at their lovely home on East Orange Grove Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Showalter and her niece, Miss Irene Teagarden, delightfully entertained with a birthday dinner in honor of Miss Eunice Chappell of Fresno, Cal., who is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fridell, of 200 North Verdugo Road.

A. B. Moody, a mail carrier in the parcel post division, who had been living in southwest Los Angeles, got tired of the fogs and dampness of that locality, so took the first opportunity he found to move to Glendale, buying the property at 533 Burchett. He and his wife and two children are now settled there and he is having a garage built.

R. V. Hemenway of Seattle, Wash., and M. C. Hemenway of Portland, Ore., spent two days last week with their parents, W. F. Hemenway and wife of 345 West California Avenue. Neither had been home for five years, and they were astounded at the wonderful improvement in Glendale. The two days were spent almost wholly in sight-seeing. Both the young men are employers of Colgate & Co.

Mrs. Elias Avers, who vacated on 17th of December her home, 241 North Cedar Street, has just secured possession of the property she has bought at 138 North Belmont, where she and her niece, Miss Harris, are now established. In the interval they visited friends and relatives and fortified themselves for the task of moving and settling the new home, which they think they are going to like very much.

Homer Gibson, of Denver, Colo., a relative of Dr. A. M. Duncan of S. Fernando, has been a guest in the latter's home this week, but is leaving this morning for his own home. He is an ex-service man who was in France for about a year and who carries a wound stripe. He had some interesting and highly exciting experiences, but like other soldier boys, is not much given to talking about the war.

DEATH OF W. W. RAMSAY

EX-JURIST EXPIRES WITHOUT WARNING AT HIS HOME ON SOUTH ADAMS STREET

The community suffered quite a shock when word reached the more immediate friends of Judge and Mrs. W. W. Ramsay that he had suddenly expired Thursday evening shortly after eating his supper. He had been in frail health for years, but had seemed to be in usual vigor and Mrs. Ramsay was quite unprepared for his going. They came to Glendale in 1912 and established themselves in a beautiful home at 137 South Adams Street. People of culture and public spirit, during the war they demonstrated their partiotism in many practical ways. Previous to coming to California deceased had practiced law in Missouri and for many years had filled a prominent place on the bench as judge in that state. To the last he kept up his interest in public affairs, both national and local, and was always ready to assist every worthy cause for the uplift of the community. Besides his widow, who had planned to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding in the near future, he leaves a son residing in Chicago, who has been advised of his father's passing. Funeral arrangements await instructions from him, the remains in the meantime being in the care of the Jewel City Undertaking Company. Mrs. Ramsay efficiently served the Tuesday Afternoon Club for two years as president, and has a large circle of friends here by whom she is greatly beloved and whose sympathy will go out to her in her great and sudden bereavement.

MRS. WELLER HONORED

SURPRISED BY MEMBERS OF ORCHESTRA AND PRESENTED WITH BEAUTIFUL BATON

Mrs. Dorothy Lee Weller, a recent bride, was delightfully surprised Tuesday evening by members of the orchestra of the First Methodist church of this city who have been under her instruction. She had arranged to call at the home of Miss Lois Murphy on North Brand to accompany that young lady to the orchestra practice, but she found all the members assembled, awaiting her arrival and received the kind of a greeting that can be better imagined than described. The Murphy home had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, pink and white cupids figuring conspicuously in the scheme. Games were played and a general good time was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served. Immediately following, a game was proposed, involving the finding of a hidden object by a seeker who should be blindfolded and be guided by the unspoken suggestions of the rest of the company who would concentrate their thoughts on the object sought. Mrs. Weller was made the subject of the experiment and without much difficulty located a spool attached to a thread which she was told was a cobweb, which she must follow and wind upon the spool. Obeying instructions, she was led up stairs and to a chest in which was discovered a beautiful baton, the gift of the orchestra. It was in most unusual condition, however, as it was covered with barnacles of popcorn balls.

Such a demonstration of the regard of the orchestra and its desire to have her continue as its leader was, of course, most gratifying.. Members of the orchestra to the number of twenty-one were present, and the party was an altogether delightful one.

STATE FOREST POLICY

The State Board of Forestry, in session in San Francisco this week adopted four definite clauses to be included in the forest policy for California that will be presented at the next session of the Legislature. The adoption of the four definite clauses is the result of several meetings of the Forestry Board. Forestry problems in this state and those of the nation as affecting this state have been thoroughly investigated. The four clauses adopted follow:

1. Appropriation by the State Legislature of sufficient funds for the prevention and suppression of forest, grain and pasture fires outside of National Forests.
2. Acquirement of logged-off areas, both in the redwoods and pine forests, as a nucleus of state forests for future timber supply.
3. Acquirement of watersheds necessary for the conservation of water for domestic and irrigation purposes.
4. Renewal of forests on logged-off areas and watersheds that are in need of reforestation.

Board members pointed out that the forests of the United States are melting away at the rate of forty billion feet board measure per annum in excess of what is grown, and that the next decade will see unprecedented logging and milling operations in progress on this coast because the forests of the Atlantic and Gulf states are practically gone. Practically no attempts are being made anywhere to provide for new forests on logged-off areas.

"Immediate action must be taken in California," declared Dr. George C. Pardee, Chairman of the Board of Forestry, "if this state is to profit by the mistakes of states and other nations that allowed their forests to be devastated without providing for future forests. Vast logged-off, fire swept forest areas will not attract tourists nor will they support saw mills and thriving communities, nor provide lumber for future generations."

Already the logged-off area in California is approximately 600,000 acres. To this is being added about 25,000 acres annually at the present rate of cutting. In addition, fires annually devastate large areas.

While a fire protective system is authorized by law, the funds to make it effective are limited. At least $150,000 is necessary, declare members of the State Board of Forestry, to install a fire protective system that will even partially protect the forests, pasture and grain areas of California. The large fire that swept the watersheds near Los Angeles last summer cost the Federal Forest Service approximately $150,000 to combat.

"The annual hay, grain and pasture losses occasioned by fires are tremendous," declared Solon H. Williams, Forestry Board member from Yreka. "While many thousands of dollars worth of these products are saved annually by existing fire fighting organizations, there is still much to be done. The normal annual loss of hay, grain and pasture several times exceeds the amount necessary to install a fire protective system for California that will protect not only hay, grain and pasture, but also our forests."

Colonel Ed Fletcher, member of the State Board of Forestry from San Diego, directed attention to the manner in which fire annually ravages watershed areas. "Forest cover," he declared, "does very much to hold water in the mountains from winter storms, prevents excessive erosion and floods and provides a more continuous water supply during the summer months. The value of water for irrigation purposes can not be over estimated. It is apparent that California's continued prosperity depends largely on the wise management of our forests."

ST. MARK'S GUILD

The annual business meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Mark's Church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Potter on Orange Grove Avenue and Everett Street. President, Mrs. Le Roy Bosserman.

Secretary, Mrs. Archie Parker.

Treasurer, Miss Nellie Mai Williams.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and all agreed it was a most satisfactory meeting, which will mean much for the welfare of the church in which all members are so deeply interested.

WAR CRIMINALS

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The list of German war criminals demanded for trial before allied tribunals has been reduced from 1200 to 300, the Daily News today said it had learned.

DOGS IN RED CROSS RELIEF

In its task of relieving suffering throughout the world, the Red Cross has had frequent occasion to rely on the sagacity and loyalty of dogs. In the mountainous regions of Bohemia, dogs are used to transport goods, being harnessed to small carts like the chiens de trait of Belgium. In carrying the food and clothing and medicines into those almost inaccessible mountain villages where the suffering was so intense, the Red Cross workers made frequent use of these carts.

In America, too, dogs are used. Last winter, when the epidemic of influenza was at its height, word came to the Red Cross Chapter at Anchorage, Alaska, that an entire village of Indians was down with the flu. But the village was fifty miles from a railroad. To reach it, the party of seven Red Cross workers who went to the rescue were obliged, after leaving the railroad, to cover these fifty miles by dog team. When they arrived, the situation was very serious. Of a hundred Indians, fifty were sick and nineteen were dead. The relief party set to work, established a hospital, fed and cared for the sufferers.

Only five more lives were lost—thanks to the dogs.

Recently, Captain Howard Armstrong, of Buffalo, was in charge of a trainload of Red Cross supplies bound to relieve the serious condition of the hospitals in Budapest. One night, while in the yards at Zurich, in Switzerland, Captain Armstrong was patroling the Red Cross train. A Swiss police dog was performing the same duty for the government. In the darkness it was impossible to distinguish the American uniform, and the guard in charge of the dog, seeing a shadowy figure near the train, ordered his dog into action. Captain Armstrong was attacked, and after a sharp scuffle, during which he was bitten several times, managed to get his raincoat over the dog's head and shouted to the guard to call him off. This was an instance where the Red Cross did not profit by the dog's loyalty, but it was not the animal's fault. It seldom is. He simply obeyed orders; the mistake was his master's.—Our Dumb Animals.

Well may a writer for the Christian Science Monitor ask the question, "Did you ever see a statue of an automobile?" Who knows? We may yet find some public place adorned with a representation of General Pershing rushing to the battle front in a "Ford." How inspiring! The same writer, also, with Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith" in mind, asks, "Did you ever read a poem about a village garage?"

The bill known in England as the Animals' Anaesthetic Bill has has at last become a law. By this measure the majority of operations, from time immemorial performed on farm and other animals without any anaesthetic, will now, legally, be performed only when the animal is rendered unconscious of pain.

HEART-THROBS OF THE WAR

Every day brings some echo of the great war. Three men met casually the other day as men do at luncheon in a public dining room and when the conversation chanced to turn upon customs and conditions in parts of Europe, one of them said:

"I guess my boy saw some of those things. He went over there and never came back."

Tenderly, as only a father could, he told of his pride in this eldest son, a lad of but twenty-two years, who won his commission in the 91st division, led his men over the top in several important actions and was at last slain by a sniper's bullet only an hour before his company was ordered to the rear; told of the young wife left with a baby boy who will never see his father; of the long weary waiting for news and the fearful blow that fell when the fatal message came; told how a "Y" man visited the grave in a little cemetery in the Argonne Forest and sent its photograph to comfort the stricken family.

"I know what I paid as my part in this war," he said, "but I am proud of the boy—proud of the way he lived, for he was a clean, manly, Christian boy, and proud of the way he died. I imagine I can see him somewhere in the life beyond, snapping his fingers in the characteristic way he had and saying, 'It's all right, Pop, don't worry.'"

NO TIME TO READ THE BIBLE

"I have wanted to read the Bible all my life, but I have never had the time. I know I need it—everybody needs it—and no man should be accounted well educated unless he have a working knowledge of it, but in the drive of competition I seem to have had no time for spiritual things and there are millions like me. But if you film the Bible, I will surely go to see your pictures and so will those others who, like me, have not had the time to read it."

One of the great motion picture magnates of the country spoke thus to Raymond Wells, director of production of The Historical Film Corporation of America, in New York, recently, and his statement so interested a member of the office staff of the Historical Film Corporation that he made inquiry of the first dozen acquaintances he met the next evening as to whether he had read the Bible.

The first man proved to be a Bible student. The other eleven had read the Bible at Sunday school when they were boys, but every one said he had been too busy since to read the Bible or to give it any thought. All of them, however, said they would welcome the Bible in motion pictures and expressed the belief that the effect of The Pageant of the Bible would be of world-wide beneficence.

One man said his partner kept a Bible on his desk and always put one in his grip when he traveled, and that "somehow things always went well with him."

This bears out the contention of President McGill of the Historical Film Corporation of America, that "the Bible is the best tool in any man's workshop, and that the need of filming it is universal."

Another statesman proposes to reduce the H. C. L. by making "porpoise leather shoes." This massive mind is not at all bothered by the trifling fact that the porpoise has no hide.

GLENDALE HAS AMPLE TERRITORY TO HOUSE LARGE POPULATION

It has been freely predicted that Glendale will become a city of 50,000 people within the next 10 years if we wisely employ the ample resources at our command. Those who are used to thinking of Glendale's boundaries as composed of Adams street, lower Glendale avenue, the S. P. tracks and the foothills, will doubt this possibility. Let them wander into the hills that hedge in the southeastern part of the city and feast their eyes upon the wonderful panorama spread before them and they will begin to realize the vast extent of territory yet available for beautiful homes. There is a high knoll there where Los Angeles and Glendale join. A view from the top of this shows all of Glendale except the extreme southern portion. In the foreground is Somerset Farm, the home of one of Glendale's earliest settlers, where many improvements are now being made. To the east are the undulating hills that extend around to Eagle Rock, to the north the tree bordered Verdugo Road winding its way up past the big film producing plant to Montrose, to the northwest the Verdugo mountains with beautiful homes clustered near and further on the stately mansions that border Kenneth Road. To the west is the Wing ranch of 25 acres. All in oranges and lemons, with the new Sycamore Canyon Boulevard and P. E. right of way forming its western boundary. Further on in the same direction, and extending far north and south is the most populous portion of Glendale. To the southwest is Old Tropico, hemmed in by the towering hills whose sides are beginning to be dotted with lovely homes. There are hundreds of acres of the finest building sites in all the Southland spread out before one's eyes and doubtless the P. E. extension and the new film producing plant will have much to do with building up this eastern section of the city clear to Eagle Rock and north to Montrose. This most favored part of the San Fernando Valley is a part of the old Julia Verdugo ranch, once covered with live oaks and sycamores and used merely as grazing grounds.

Almost at the foot of the knoll mentioned is one of the most attractive homes in Glendale, built by Fred Myers of Los Angeles, for the occupancy of himself and wife. The house proper has seven large rooms with the most beautiful built-in features, such as buffet, book cases, tile drainboard and white enameled walls in the kitchen and tile-encased bath tub. The rooms are done in rare woods, with the natural grain and color preserved. There is a beautiful patio in front and a large pergola porch in the rear, looking north upon valley and mountain scenery. A cement floored basement extends under the greater portion of the house. The grounds are being beautified by landscape gardeners. Copra palms and Cedras Deodorus trees make an ornamental setting for the rare flowers and shrubs that will be added later. This beautiful home on an acre of ground represents an outlay of nearly $15,000. Mr. Myers lived in Glendale in previous years and since moving to Los Angeles has nursed the ambition to some time build a home in this city that would be everything heart could desire. He feels that now his wish is realized and he and his wife are impatiently awaiting the completion of their home. They expect to move into it next week.

The return of the roads to private owners will meet with many obstacles, and it will require time to get things running properly again. But most of us who have had experience with government operation are ready and willing to see private control again, and welcome the change.—Sanger (Tex.) Courier.

The first shipment of American rice ever made to the Orient will leave here within the next few days aboard the Pacific Mail freighter West Meris.

So the "airplane hearse" has arrived. We assume that no self-respecting mortician will permit any "looping the loop" evolutions en route to the cemetery.

ELECTRIC CLOTHES WASHER

THE COUNTRY'S GREAT NEED

There is a great need for railroad improvement, extension and the building of new lines to meet the growing necessities of the country, that cannot be met under present conditions. Something must be done, and the calm judgment of the sanest and best qualified element of the country's citizenship should be bent on securing a practical solution of the problem, one that will meet impartially all rational requirements and serve the great needs of the nation for adequate transportation at reasonable cost.

The era of active railroad building in this country was one of the most prosperous the country has ever known. There was great inducement to American enterprise in the work. No other country in the world has so many miles of railroad, and foreign railroads are not so well built and equipped and have not been so efficiently managed. The marvelous growth and material development of the United States was greatly accelerated by the enterprise of the country's capitalists in railroad building. None of this would have been possible but for the free rein given to corporate and individual activity.

In no other respect was American energy ever exerted to more profitable effect, profitable to the country and its people, than in the rapid building of the great railroad systems. There was greed and deviltry of various kinds connected with all of this, and it became necessary to hold the great railroad corporations under government supervision. This necessity will continue and be made more strict, but it will not be for the public welfare that the enterprise in the building and operation of railroads, that has done so much for the country, be hindered and hampered by socialistic regulations or approaches to soviet government.

It is a great and grave problem on which Congress is about to enter in providing for the future regulation of railroads, and its work should not be influenced by the politics involved in the presidential election of next year, and surely it should not yield to radical influence or the insatiate demands of railroad employes for more pay.—Knoxville, Tenn., Banner.

Occasionally a man threatening to strike seems to give very little reason for such action beyond the fact that he has become sufficiently prosperous to afford it.

the City Manager to report upon at the next meeting of the Board.

The City Treasurer's report for the month of December was presented and ordered to be filed.

Demands were presented and referred to the Finance Committee and were reported back approved, and on motion of Trustee Shaw warrants were ordered to be issued in payment of the same.

The City Manager presented specifications for the extension of the street lighting system, which were read, and on motion of Trustee Shaw, adopted.

On motion the City Clerk was instructed to advertise for bids to supply the material required by the specifications for the extension of the lighting system, to be opened at 8 o'clock p. m., Thursday, January 22, 1920.

The City Manager reported having had a request from a woman's organization in the Tropico District for the use of the Council Chamber of the Tropico City Hall; and in this connection he stated that certain repairs need to be made to the roof of the building, and that the Council Chamber needed tinting, both at an estimated cost of seventy five dollars ($75). On motion of Trustee Henry, the City Manager was instructed to make the repairs and improvements as recommended by him.

The City Manager presented a list of blue gum trees growing in the parkways of the city that in his judgment may be removed to advantage. On motion of Trustee Shaw the report and recommendations of the City Manager was referred to the Public Works Committee with power to act. Trustee Shaw also made a motion, which was adopted, , that the Public Works Committee be instructed to confer with property owners interested and be authorized to secure the removal of certain pepper trees.

The City Manager reported in regard to the application of A. Friedman for permission to install a gasoline curb pump, which request had been denied at the last previous meeting of the Board; that Mr. Friedman had agreed to make certain changes at his place of business which would remove the objections formerly existing to the installation of a second pump. On motion of Trustee Henry, the permit was granted to A. Friedman to install a gasoline pump with the understanding that the same be revoked if the former objectionable conditions were reverted to, the same not to be in conflict with any city ordinances.

The City Manager called attention to conditions as they exist in the Verdugo Wash, particularly in regard to certain matters which do not seem to be regulated by the existing ordinances. He called attention particularly to the advisability of regulating the business of taking sand from the wash. On motion of Trustee Shaw referred to the City Attorney to confer with the County Counsel, to see if such regulations may not be adopted by both City and County, looking to a better regulation of this matter.

The City Attorney reported progress in his investigation in regard to the establishing of an industrial district, stating that at present he sees no reason why the Board of Trustees may not pass an ordinance setting aside as an industrial district the territory named in the petition presented to the Board at the last previous meeting.

Mr. James, representing the Standard Oil Company, was present and considerable discussion ensued in regard to the application of that company for a permit to establish a side track and make certain improvements desired by that company, as explained in a previous communication to the Board. On motion of Trustee Shaw, the City Attorney was instructed to outline an ordinance dividing the city into residence, business and industrial districts, and present the same at the next meeting of the Board.

A resolution was presented, accompanied by a map prepared by the City Engineer which, on motion of Trustee Woodberry, was adopted, as Resolution No. 1085, "A resolution of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale declaring its intention to close up, vacate, and abandon for street and alley purposes, a portion of that certain alley in Tract No. 618, in the City of Glendale, described herein and specifying the exterior boundaries of the district affected thereby."

Trustee Shaw presented an ordinance amending the license ordinance, which was read and ordered, to be laid over until the next regular meeting.

The City Attorney reported that the court has confirmed the referees report on the opening of Orange Street and that the interlocutory degree will soon be issued.

COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE CO. TO HAVE GREATER OUTPUT

In addition to the twelve-acre plant of the Canadian Aeroplane Ltd. consisting of eight large permanent steel and concrete buildings and three smaller frame buildings, and containing more than 235,000 square feet of factory space, just purchased by the Columbia Graphophone Co., this company now announces the acquisition of 115 acres of land for the erection of new plants in Baltimore, Md.

These factory sites are situated at Orangeville, adjoining the Hess Steel Corporation, and are on the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroads. Ground will be broken immediately for the erection of the new buildings, and it is expected that both the Baltimore and Toronto plants, in addition to the factories now running night and day at Bridgeport, Conn., will be in full operation during 1920.

The Columbia Graphophone Factory Corporation, formed to take care of the building activities of the Columbia Graphophone Company, and incorporated under the laws of Maryland, will be the owner of both the new plants. All of the common and preferred stock of this corporation will be owned by the Columbia Graphophone Company. Francis S. Whitten is president of both, and the directorate of the new Maryland corporation will include prominent Baltimore banking and business interests.

The Baltimore plant will manufacture, when in full operation, every part used in Columbia Grafonolas as well as records. The acquisition of the two new plants in Baltimore and Toronto will give the Columbia Graphophone Company five times the acreage it has at present, and still further developments are on foot. Consideration and investigation are now being given to factory sites in three other cities.

Columbia Graphophone Company officials state that these big developments have been made after careful consideration of the business conditions confronting the company. It is based on their belief in the dealers who are selling Columbia Grafonolas and Records throughout the United States and Canada, and on a careful analysis of the future possibilities for phonograph sales in these two countries.

The Columbia Graphophone Company is a leader in volume of business in the phonograph industry and claims also the leadership in quality. Hitherto this company's orders have exceed the output of its factories, but with this expansion it is expected that its volume of production will not only enable it to fill all orders without delay, but also to further increase its business.

which she is closely in touch by reason of having been state regent of Minnesota.

Notices were read of the state D. A. R. Convention to be held in Los Angeles in February and the usual collection for the mile of pennies that are being accumulated for the maternity hospital fund, was taken. A considerable amount of canned fruit and jelly was also brought by members for the hospital.

The most important item of business was the adoption of resolutions in memory of Mrs. Martha Morris, whose death occurred since the last meeting at which she was present, and who was one of the most beloved members of the Chapter.

A letter of appreciation from an officer of the Maternity Hospital had been received by Mrs. Leppelman as follows:

"Enclosed find receipt for $50, the amount of the very generous Christmas gift from members of the General Richard Gridley Chapter, D. A. R. You have always been among our best friends and we thank you most heartily for your gift and the interest in our work so generously displayed.

With warmest appreciation and best wishes for the new year, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Josephine Bissell, Secretary."
